Interview of a cult legend...

What makes these guys keep coming back?

BY JOE LOGAN

It's five hundred miles to Indiana, we've got a full tank of gas, half a pack of fun dip, the three men sitting next to me are sporting the most outrageous headwear since Devo, it's dark outside, and we're all wearing sunglasses.

"So," I began, turning to the guy sitting next to me, "tell me about yourselves."

He turned his head about halfway toward me, glanced at me with a look that could have been viewed as scorn, and said,

"What about us?"

With that he turned his head back towards the road, and all I could see was the outline of his white sport coat and the faint image of the word 'Wilson'.

"Well, why do you guys wear those covers on your heads?"

"Why not?"

Hmm, seemed to be going about this all wrong. I had to try a different line of approach....

"Let's start at the beginning. What are your names?"

"The Racketeers," the man riding shotgun said dryly, without taking his eyes off the road.

"Yeah, but don't you guys have individual names?"

"Sure do."

"You mind telling me what they are?"

"Sure do."

I thought the driver might be a little more talkative, so I turned to where I could just make out the word 'Spalding'.

"Where are you going?"

"Bloomington."

"What are you guys going to do there?"

No one responded. I waited a few minutes, listening to the wheels whine against the pavement, and finally decided that they were not going to answer.

Actually, they seemed to be much more comfortable not talking.

"Come on guys, help me out here, I have to write an article."

Three sets of shoulders shrugged almost imperceptibly.

I decided to try one last time to get these fellows talking.

"Do you guys travel together?"

"Usually," comes the slight response from the front seat.

"Why?"

All three heads turn slowly towards me, and three serious faces stare at me from behind their shades, "Why not?" they ask together as the old car rolls to a stop on the side of the highway.

"End of the line?" I asked, getting out of the car.

"For you," one said as the car slips into gear and starts rolling away.

As I watched the taillights disappear into the darkness of Route 37, I swore that I could hear stylized music in the background, but then it was gone, and I was left to stare and wonder about what lay ahead for the three mystery men.

LEGIO XIII ROCKS CONVENTION

The oath of allegiance

The trio sings us a farewell song

Convention Announcements:

Mr. James Minter will speak about selecting colleges and the secrets to college admissions. On hand to answer questions from JCL delegates at this assembly will be Angela Guido, former NJCL Secretary, along with a panel of college students who will discuss topics varying from college classes to social life. This event will be held in Business Hall room 202, at 9:00 A.M. on Thursday.

Attention SCLers: The SCL picture will take place on Thursday at 11:00 A.M., outside McNutt Hall.

The IU Auditorium is used to hosting performers from around the world. Last night was no exception as Legio XIII brought the Roman army to life.

Through a variety of demonstrations and audience participation activities, Legio XIII showed how the Roman army operated.

The troupe, which is based in England, portrays life in a Roman legion in AD 43. Marcus Cassius and his soldiers explained how armor and weapons were designed and made, and how the army trained and fought. After grabbing “barbarians” from their seats, the Legion whipped them into fighting condition—or at least how to turn in circles on command.

It should be noted that Fu was the best circle turner of them all.

Overall, the audience was captivated by the legion’s performance. Part of it, no doubt, was seeing how their friends were “trained” on stage. However, a good deal of the credit must go to the strong performances of the actors themselves. The long lines of autograph seekers after the show attested to their talent.

Legio XIII will be performing today at 4:00 pm in 100 Woodburn, and again on Thursday at 11:00 am.

Getting PERSONAL

See what all your fellow delegates are talking about

To Rajar from ND: Thank you for your warm smile and all the dances! "RR of O"

To the ND delegation: Thank you so much for adopting me! Chicago was a blast! You're the best! Love, Anna

Cy: Great performance! . . . hope to see you sometime soon. Sarah

To all the VA certamen teams: You are totally rad! Keep it up! Jessie

Dear Concerned: My spirit's somewhere around here, but it's not another prom date that I need . . . Manisha

Mrs. Elder: Since our mothers aren't here, will you make our beds too? The other National Officers

M + M, congrats. Thanx 4 taking me under your Latin wings. Love, JF

Here's to you, Mr. Raulerson! Your team, M + M + M + C

I've been in Latin 4 years. This has been the best convention by far. I will never forget the tacos, tattoos, muscle shirts, skipping tests, and screaming until we were hoarse. Thanks for the yo-yo. Bye.

Hey New York Buddies and Buddy Non-buddies: Thanks for a great last convention as a JCLer. Keep up the good work and I'll come back to chaperone! Love, Yana (Buddy #6)

EAT POTATOES!

Dear Cynthia, Chris & Ms. Marquis: Thanks! We are having a great week. Thanks for all your help- we would have been totally lost without you. Jen and Heather. Go Kansas!

NO, EAT TOMATOES!

We love you Tiana and we'll miss you a lot next year, but be thinkin' of you all the time. Buddy 1

Mom and Dad Luckey:

Thanks for all of the love and support through the years! I'll miss you next year! Love, your Social Butterfly!!

To Matt Webb: You guys were great in certamen. I look forward to finding you on the Internet. Chris

Rob Bokon: Heads up for incoming 12-pounders! Team Ohio

Florida Lower Certamen Team: Montana, Matt, Marcia, et Chris: Congratulations on another FANTASY production. Keep the dust off of those whuppin' sticks! Mr. R.

Texas: You are going down. The Stake

WARNING: Don't mess with the COW! Signed, the Wisconsin Delegation

Bill: Try DECAF!

Jeffrey: Regwetably I can no longer make your bed or help you with your tie because I know that the other boys and girls are teasing you. Love, Mom

Officer Kari: We're so proud of you! We still love you even though you eat in the cool cafeteria. New York

Dear J.J. - I need a date for the Farewell Dance. Are you available? Love, Jen.

Peter, I'm still trying to find a quiet place to talk to you. See you soon. Cynthia.

LA Grads. Katie F., Sarah M., Craig P., Katie Z., You're the Best. Mrs. M.

LA Delegation, Love You! Mrs. M.

Brett F. - Will you please pick up your Fan mail from NJ? The room is filling quickly.

Melissa - Will you be my date for the semi-formal? - Bob or Fred or Tony or Tonya.

Female with polyurethane skirt seeking dude who digs polyester.

Delegates beware . . . the cafeteria ice cream separates into layers after only a short period of time. It is NOT a pretty sight . . . FDA.

E.T. - I would enjoy it very much if you could persuade "Hestia" to join me at next year's convention. - Kaeso.

Mr. Anderson - Thanks for the sweatshirt, and all the other things you've done for me: this convention and this year. I appreciate it a lot more than the $.50 cost of this personal implies. Emily.

To the hottie from N.J., (not you Kevin) Where do you go all day? We miss you! The girls of "Fu Jersey."

Zhao . . . Zhao! Thanks for the flower. Love, Guess who?

Chaos . . . Hope you get to see your San Fran Man soon. Good luck in your senior year! I love ya! love, J. Mambo.

Orpheus, Hades, and Groovy Bill . . . You guys are the best! Thanks for all the laughs. Love, Your new Florida friend.

A HUGE thank you to everyone who wished me a happy birthday. You all made it very special! Katie Miller of FL.

Hey everyone come to the Bazaar and get a pin I know you want it. - Marc. D, MA.

Kate Randerson: Missouri loves you and I'm glad you're my friend, even though you seem to be hurting me lately. JCL Princess.

Col. Cobb McNutt - Don't think people in your state don't know who you are! - Protecting the fame of corn in Dallas.

To Bill Darneidy of Wisconsin: so glad to have finally seen you. I hope to see you lots more and to keep in touch after the week is over. Your friendly Virginia delegates who has a horse for a friend.

N.B. The cheering is ours next year. - Madison Central.

To the lovely ladies of Texas - You ladies rock! Nobody dances better. - An admirer from KY.

This is Al Green writing to inform that my newest 8-track is now available, and that has been recorded with Kool and the Gang of Madison Central!!!

Dear Big Eats, Moe Hui Lan, H.A., Arianna, and Mary Catherine: Where's Bobby Fisher? 'Cause I don't know. Go Spartans! Fresh Face! Love, Figaroo.

To Ms. Be about, Hope you feel better soon. We love you! The Wakefield kids.

I am concerned about the reaction to the speech I presented Tuesday. While my remarks were intended to inform and entertain, some listeners were offended by them; to these people I apologize. Sincerely, Grant Tucker.
